

Potters Poultry International

Potters Poultry have been manufacturing poultry equipment for over 50 years. The company is also a farming company and rears around 2 million birds a year for the cage free market in the UK. Potters now export their systems to many areas around the World.

Potters specialise in automatic nests for breeders and free range hens and a unique aviary system for cage free birds. Developed from our first aviary system of 22 years ago. We also manufacture our own plastic slats, probably the strongest on the market today. All the equipment is made to a very high specification and is designed for durability and strength.

The Avinest is a strong durable nest which comes in single tier, two tier and front and centre egg belt. Because of its strong design it is suitable for all laying hens and breeders in both hot and cold climates.

All the systems are fully adaptable and can be designed to fit into all types of houses both new and conversions.

As a farming company that have had many years developing and manufacturing equipment we are in a unique position to be able to offer a vast depth of advice to our customers.
